Tributes to Bharata Ratna Dr A P J Abdul Kalam on his death anniversary

Inspiring incidents from life of Dr. A.P.J Abdul Kalam

No adjectives are enough to highlight the exemplary contribution of Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam to India's space and defence programs. And no adjectives are enough to highlight the humility and the generosity of India's Missile Man who has won every Indian's heart. Fittingly known as the People's President, these rare stories about Dr. Kalam will only deepen the respect you have for this legend. Read on.

1. Once, Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam rejected the suggestion to put broken glass on the wall of a building that needed protection. Why? Because broken glass would be harmful for birds!

This happened when Dr. Kalam was with the Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) and his team was discussing options to secure the perimeter of a building that needed protection. Dr. Kalam reportedly said: "If we do that, birds will not be able to perch on the wall."

2. When youngsters & teenagers requested a meeting with President Kalam, the President not only obliged and gave the kids his precious time, but he also listened carefully to the ideas the kids had!

As President, often Dr. Kalam's office would receive requests from youngsters for a meeting with the country's first citizen. Not only would Dr. Kalam meet the kids in his personal chambers at the Rashtrapati Bhavan, but he would also give them his precious time, "listen" to their ideas and provide feedback to the kids. On occasions, the President would follow up with such kids asking about the status of the ideas they discussed!

3. Soon after it was declared that Dr. Kalam would be the next President, he visited a modest school to deliver a speech. His security detail was minimal, and he didn't mind taking control of the situation when the power went off.

Speaking to around 400 students, Dr. Kalam ensured the power cut didn't cause any interruption. He walked right in the middle of the crowd and asked the students to surround him. He then spoke to 400 students with his bare voice and delivered, like always, an inspiring keynote.

4. President Kalam has given up all his life savings and salaries to a trust he founded named PURA (Providing Urban Amenities to Rural Areas).

The government takes care of the President of India as well as of all the former presidents. Knowing this, Dr. Kalam during his tenure as President decided to give away all his wealth and life savings towards a fund that works towards providing urban amenities to rural population. Apparently, Dr. Kalam called up Dr. Verghese Kurien, the founder of Amul, and asked: "Now that I have become the President of India, the government is going to look after me till I am living; so what can I do with my savings and salary?"

5. President Kalam is known to write his own thank you cards.

As humble and generous the man is, President Kalam is known to sign his own thank you cards. One instance is when Quora user Naman Narain drew a sketch of Dr. Kalam and sent it to the President. To his surprise, the President sent him a thank you card, with a short handwritten message and personalised with his signature.

6. Supposed to attend a college event as the Chief Guest, APJ once surprised the students of the event's organising committee by visiting them late in the night.

Once, Dr. Kalam was to be a Chief Guest at a college event. He wasn't the President at the time, but held a significant office at the DRDO and was one of the key advisors to the government. Curious to see the kids prep up for a big event, Kalam decided to pay a visit to the venue. He came in a jeep, without any security, and talked to the students present at the venue. He said he wanted to meet the "real hardworking people".

7. Dr. Kalam is so humble he wouldn't mind going to an event a little late for the sake of letting his fans take pictures with him!

Dr. Kalam was the Chief Guest at an event at IIM Ahmedabad recently. Prior to the event, he was lunching with a class of around sixty students. At the end of the lunch, the students wanted each a photo with the former President.

Citing the delay, the event organiser tried to hush off the students; but to everyone's surprise Dr. Kalam asked the organiser to calm down and said that he won't leave the place until every person who wanted a picture with him got a picture!

8. Once during an event, Dr. Kalam refused to sit on a chair that was designated for him – because the chair was larger in size than the other chairs!

At a recent convocation of IIT-Varanasi, Dr. Kalam was the Chief Guest. There were five chairs on the stage, the centre one being for Dr. Kalam, the other four designated for the top university officials. Noticing his chair being bigger in size than the others, Dr. Kalam refused to sit on it and offered the Vice Chancellor to sit in stead. The VC couldn't, obviously. No doubt, another chair was made available immediately for the Honourable former President!

9. When a subordinate of President Kalam at DRDO couldn't take his children to an exhibition due to work pressure, Kalam surprised his subordinate and took the children in stead!

During a significant project of the DRDO, the work pressure was high. A scientist approached his boss – Dr. Kalam – and asked to leave early that day considering he had promised his children to take them to an exhibition. Kalam generously granted the permission, and the scientist got back to work. When he did, he lost the track of time and forgot to leave early. He reached home, feeling guilty, and looked for his kids, but could only find his wife. He asked for the kids, and to his surprise she told him: "your manager was here around 5:15 and he took the kids for the exhibition!"

Apparently, Dr. Kalam had been observing the scientist and noticed that he might never realise he had to go home. Feeling for the kids, he decided to take the kids in his stead. If that's not sweet, what is?

10. When he was President, Dr. Kalam took to "Yahoo! Answers" and posted a question: "What should we do to free our planet from terrorism?"

And when he did, people like Sri Sri Ravishankar, Kiran Bedi, Leander Paes and the who's who of India and the world turned to Yahoo! to answer his question! Here's the link to that question page.

11. Who did President Kalam invite as the "Presidential Guests" to Kerela's Raj Bhavan during his first visit to Kerela after becoming the President?

1. A road side cobbler, 2. Owner of a very small hotel

No kidding. As the President, Dr. Kalam was entitled to invite anyone as the "Presidential Guests" to the Raj Bhavan of Kerela during his first visit to Trivandrum. Dr. Kalam had spent a significant time as a scientist in Trivandrum and he invited a road-side cobbler – who was quite close to Dr. Kalam during his time in Kerala; and so was the owner of the small hotel where Dr. Kalam would often have his meals.

Can you imagine any other politician or a celebrity inviting a cobbler and a small business owner as their most prestigious guests?

12. And the most important story – of his contribution to India's space and defence programs:

Dr. Kalam was one of the few scientists who started working with ISRO during the agency's early years. A Church became the place of work for the handful of India's rocket scientists – including Dr. Kalam; and a nearby beach became the place where the rocket launchpad was set up. Cycles and bullock-carts were used back in the 1970s & 1980s to transport rocket parts and entire satellites, and Dr. Kalam was one of the rare few scientists who made significant contributions to India's early space program.

In fact, Dr. Kalam was the Director of the project that indigenously developed the SLV-III (Space Launch Vehicle) and also the PSLV – which is operational even today and was used in the Moon and the Mars missions. In 1980, SLV-III successfully injected the Rohini satellite into a near-Earth orbit and made India an exclusive member of the Space Club.

After working with ISRO, Dr. Kalam took up responsibilities for developing Indigenous Guided Missiles at the DRDO which led to the development of AGNI and PRITHVI missiles. He also led the Pokhran-II nuclear tests that made India a nuclear weapon state.

It is said that during Indira Gandhi's regime, Dr. Kalam was the man who convinced the Prime Minister for an advanced missile program for the country – and despite the disapproval of the Union Cabinet, PM Gandhi had secretly funded Kalam's aerospace and defence projects. And the rest, as they say, is history.

CSR spending: 16% of firms give no reason for not meeting obligations

Corporate Social Responsibility

India Inc's commitment towards corporate social responsibility remains shaky, as companies give flimsy excuses for not meeting their legally mandated obligations.

To an RTI filed by Business Line seeking information on the number of companies which have given reasons to the government for not spending on CSR, the Ministry responded by saying, "CSR expenditure of 460 listed companies, which have placed their annual reports on their websites, indicates 51 Public Sector Undertakings (PSUs) and 409 private sector companies together spent about ₹ 6,337.36 crore on CSR during 2014-15."

According to the Ministry of Corporate Affairs, these 460 companies have cited reasons for either not spending at all or not meeting the minimum criteria on CSR in 2014-15. The reasons included adoption of long-term CSR programmes/projects, and difficulty to find suitable implementing agency.

A CII spokesperson told Business Line, "These reasons don't seem to be genuine or bona fide. If they were serious about spending, they would have done it. One can't buy the argument that they were unable to spend on CSR as it was the first year of implementation of CSR legislation."

CSR rules mandate that if the company fails to spend the amount, the board shall, in its report, specify the reasons for not doing so. According to the Ministry, 16 per cent of 460 companies have given no reason for not spending on their CSR obligation.

As many as 30 per cent of the companies stated 'adoption of long-term CSR programmes/projects' as the reason for not meeting their obligation. About 28 per cent expressed inability to formulate well-conceived CSR policy as it was the first year of implementation.

While 5 per cent mentioned 'budget advanced to implementing agencies', 4 per cent said there was difficulty in finding a suitable implementing agency.

There are stringent penalties for companies not disclosing their CSR spends. Companies can be fined a sum not less than ₹ 50,000 and extending up to ₹ 25 lakh.

Also company officials who are in default can face imprisonment which can extend to three years or be fined ₹ 50,000 to ₹ 5 lakh, or with both.

2,351 firms fail to respect CSR mandate

Ministry of Corporate Affairs

As many as 2,351 companies have no existence in corporate social responsibility endeavors, according to numbers released by the Ministry of Corporate Affairs to the Rajya Sabha.

While a total of 776 firms have engaged NGOs for implementing corporate social responsibility (CSR) activities, nearly 2400 companies chose not to spend a single penny on such tasks, Corporate Affairs Minister, Arun Jaitley said in a written reply to Rajya Sabha.

An evaluation of the CSR expenditure of 4,257 companies indicates that these firms have spent about 72 per cent of the mandated amount on CSR activities, added Jaitley. Of which, 621 firms have spent more than prescribed amount, while 400 companies spent 'exactly' the same amount as prescribed under the rules.

Further, 261 firms have spent 66-99 per cent of the their mandated CSR fund, while 624 companies spent less than 66 per cent of the prescribed amount. Jaitley noted that organising private sports tournaments and one-off activities are not permissible under, adding that a total of 967 complaints are pending before the designated courts so far.

1,900 companies spend Rs 8,029 crore towards CSR works in 2014-15:

More than 1,900 companies shelled out a total of Rs 8,029 crore towards corporate social responsibility (CSR) activities in 2014-15, the government said. Out of these companies, 116 were public sector undertakings while 1,790 were private sector entities, Minister of State for Corporate Affairs Arjun Ram Meghwal told Rajya Sabha. On whether the CSR guidelines are being followed by firms, the Minister said no violation has been noticed in case of 4,257 companies for which CSR data is available. Emphasising that monitoring of CSR is the responsibility of the board of directors of companies concerned, Meghwal said the Ministry has no role to play in this regard.

Govt asks top 50 cos to fund incubators as CSR spend

The government has asked the country's top 50 companies to fund incubators as part of their corporate social responsibility (CSR) spend, a move meant to strengthen the startup ecosystem.

Large companies have to allocate 2% of their profits towards CSR but have competing demands - from building toilets to funding education. In a letter to companies, industrial policy and promotion secretary Ramesh Abhishek has added funding existing incubators in government-recognised institutions or setting up new ones to the list, said sources. "It will help upgrade the existing ones and create linkages for new companies that entrepreneurs are setting up," said an official.

The lack of incubation facilities has been identified as a key gap in the startup ecosystem which help in providing mentorship support apart from access to networks and markets.

The government had planned to set up 35 new incubators in existing institutions, with Centre and states chipping in with 80% of the funding, while the rest coming from the private sector. An equal number is to come up in the private sector with the Centre giving 50% grant.

The government has listed 68 incubators across the country and has also asked for applications for registration of new ones.

He, however, requested Samsung Electronics to extend the usage of these facilities to other schools in the state as well.

Government plans awards for corporate social responsibility activities:

Government plans to institute awards for corporate social responsibility (CSR) activities across sectors as part of efforts to incentivise companies to take up work towards social welfare. The Corporate Affairs Ministry, which is implementing the Companies Act, is working on the idea of having such awards. Officials said the ministry is proposing to institute the awards for CSR activities across eight sectors, including education, health and environment.

The aim is to incentivise companies to carry out more CSR works that can help in overall development activities, they added.

"We are planning to set up the awards in the current financial year," an official said. As per the plan, eight sectors will be chosen and there be three awards for each of them. One will be for public sector companies and two for private firms. The private companies will be classified on the basis of annual profit -- those having Rs 5 crore or more and entities having less than that level.

FCRA waiver for swachh bharat to attract clean foreign money:

The government wants only corporates with clean antecedents and good reputation to contribute to the Swachh Bharat drive even as it has waived the Foreign Contribution Regulation Act (FCRA) provisions for Swachh Bharat Mission to allow contributions from abroad.

The home ministry has allowed exemption to the mission from the FCRA Act, 2010 for accepting foreign contribution in cash or kind with retrospective effect from April 24, 2015, with a rider that the contributors' intentions are clean.

"Due diligence will be exercised to ascertain the bona fides of the contributors prior to receiving any contributions in the field. The accounts will be compulsorily audited by CAG," the home ministry said in an order to finance ministry last month. "All foreign contributions would be received in an exclusive designated bank account only and a separate set of accounts and records in respect of foreign contributions received and utilised would be maintained," it said.

Such caution towards corporate contributions to the Swachh Bharat Mission is also evident in a revised 'framework of engagement' with PSUs and corporates prepared by the government. It said the qualifying criteria for PSUs or corporate houses to have a working arrangement with the Swachh Bharat Mission would be "clean antecedents and reputation, high credibility and reputation among people and capacity and outreach for engaging with community" - Collected, compiled & reported by: CS B Kiran Kumar Gupta, Member - abhaya Foundation

Govt High School, Alwal Update

We thank you for your help extended for the academic year 2015-16. In this connection I would like to bring a few facts to your notice. The last academic year was a very tumultuous. There were no teachers. We had come only in the month of August. As the children were very poor academically we could not achieve the target of good result but the philanthropy which you showed on us was a great motivation for us. We were able to get 100% result in Telugu Hindi, Social and English. In science nearly 80%. We thank you abhaya from the bottom of our heart – Mrs. G Rama, HM, ZPHS, Alwal

Sireesha (Agri B.Sc)

First of all, I am very much thankful to your kind co-operation and support for my education. Now I am doing internship in 'D.I' grow organic fertilizer company. With all your moral support I am doing best in Education. Total period of our internship is about 70 days. It was started from 03/07/2016. We have to undergo training for a week. After that they will give postings in different districts. We are getting practical knowledge from this program.

After the completion of this internship, there is a chance of placements by the same company based on our work. Our 6th semester practical exams will be conducted in the month of July. They grant me permission to attend the practical exams in the period of internship. Our 7th semester classes will start from August. I have to pay my final year 1st semester fee of 40,000 before 31st of July. I have already discussed with Siva Krishna and Monisha regarding the fee.

Manikanta (B. Tech)

Manikanta is a bright student and got 93 percent in his intermediate. He appeared for EAMCET and got 13K+ rank. He got Computer Science Engineering seat at Aditya College of Engineering at Surampalem near Kakinada. His father died with health issues and mother is living along with her Mother-in-law at Rajahmundry. Both his Mother and Grandmother are taking tuition classes and earning their livelihood. They are just managing all their household expenses with their mere salaries.

Mani need to pay fee about 84K and approached abhaya foundation through a known source. After joining in the college, the administration gave discount of 20K, as he got a better rank. Being from an economically weak background, he is eligible for Rs.35k fee reimbursement from Government. So after all discounts he still need to pay around 28 thousand and abhaya paid that amount and instructed him to follow the abhaya guidelines.

GVS Kanth (Groups)

I am Srikanth, I have completed my Group 2 coaching and now I am in Groups preparation. I am studying three subjects per day and revising all the subjects regularly. My M.Tech Project seminars have started. As of now, I am focusing on M.Tech and waiting for the notification for Groups Exams.

Nagaraju (B.Tech)

This is Nagaraju from Vasavi College of Engineering Hyderabad. I have completed Campus Recruitment Training. In the first week of this month, I started earning by selling fruits in Secundrabad. The pain of pulling the fruit cart from place to place has taught me the value of a rupee. I once again thank abhaya for all the support.

Shilpa (9th Class)

I am going to School regularly and studying well. I am attending Balavikas on every Sunday and helping Saraswati amma at Mandiram. I am attending IIT classes at school. I am very thankful to abhaya for getting me admitted into Dayanand School as I am able to get the best out of me after joining in this School.

Sailatha (MBBS)

I am happy with my Life and studies. I was posted to Dermatology for 15days & came across different cases like psoriasis, leprosy, etc., It was interesting and challenging to rule out different skin manifestations and coming to probable diagnosis as most of them look alike. This time I was very cautious in examining the patients as they were highly contagious. Later I have been posted to Ophthalmology. Age related Cataract is the most common case seen in the OP which constitutes major global burden of avoidable blindness. This can be reduced by the use of appropriate & affordable technology. The cataract surgery was quite interesting.

I was chosen and given opportunity to share my experiences in these two years of my journey with NSS through a testimonial which is going to be published in the college magazine. I genuinely tried to put up all the main empowering activities that I have accomplished in and around college. I was appreciated by the Professor for writing skills and wonderfully presenting my association with NSS from the day one. The main source behind such skills, energy, communicative power, patriotism, leader & mentor ship qualities etc., is spirit given to me by the founder. I convey my heartfelt thanks for every kind of support.

I got an opportunity to attend a surgery demo which was in PG orientation. After listening the session, I identified that, it would play a significant role in my final year theory. He assured us to complete entire book in 4 classes. So I wanted to register for the paid classes. But the amount was Rs.3500/- . So I asked for the possible discount by explaining my unaffordability. He who had a passion for teaching, kindly gave a concession of Rs.1500/-. Thus I felt to make use of these classes fully and joined with great enthusiasm. On the first day I got strained due to continuous listening for 8-10hours, later I was habituated. By this, I came to know the pattern of PG Coaching Classes where teaching very superficially and highlighting the important topics. Due to these classes on weekends I failed to participate in any social activity. Recently my mother resigned her job due to continuous stress and frequent troubles in her health. As she is already having knowledge in the tailoring wanted to earn lively hood at home. So attending training classes in order to become perfect in certain aspects like finishing etc., I am taking care of her health and helping my sister in her academics.

Despite of many horizons abhaya is serving in every nook and corners of the needy society. Whenever I go through these newsletters, it gives me lots of inspiration, energy, rejuvenation & innovation to my brain. I salute abhaya from the bottom of my heart for doing the things miraculously with pure selfless intentions.

Now my work is pending i.e., studying...studying...

In the first instance, I called Siva Sir and later cahated with abhaya Team in FB seeking spoken help for my CA IPCC coaching and hostel at Bengaluru. abhaya Foundation immediately came farward to help me after listening to my issue and the first thing i liked very much is the spontaneous action by abhaya after hearing my problem.

After that I was advised to be ready with all documents and come to Bengaluru immediately. On 27/07/16 I reached Bengaluru and first met CA Radhakrishna, Trustee. He took me to YESHAS ACADEMY in Jayanagar and they gave a discount of Rs.11k for Rs.48k fee payable. abhaya made arrangements to pay the fee to Yeshash.

Then we went to TMLC hostel, Wilson Garden and got yp know the rules and regulations of that hostel and how to stay there and also understand the self managed system. I should work hard to achieve my goal CA. Apart from this the hostel room was given for free and monthly exp are around Rs.2k towards food, electricity bill, newspaper, vegetables for cooking etc.,

Then I met CS sreenivas sir, the head of that TMLC hostel at 3PM and he advised me as to how to study and how to stay in hostel and the term that I can stay in the hostel is about 4 years and finally he had given me a admission letter for joining hostel on aug4th. All these things happened in just 48 hours. I felt very happy with this and that happiness and feelings i cant express in small words. Finally I would like to say thanks to CS Balachandra Sunku who is the backbone for all the happening.I am really very thankful to him. Sir i hope that everything is going good and thank you so much sir .. for coming farward to support me after hearing my problem. I have no sleep for the past many days thinking as to how to proceed. Now my work is pending i.e; studying ...studying. - B Sandeep, Palamaner, AP it is always inspiring!

Dear Swamiji, Humble pranams to you! Country needs to see you like mystic. There is no higher steps at your present setup. You must change the flow and reach millions. If you change now, that is good for you. if not God will make you to change by force. Whatever you have achieved until now is just 10% of what you are going to achieve. Whatever people you have till now they are just sufficient to this level. Soon all your surrounding people will get changed and don't see yourself as an NGO. That is just a vehicle, without you what is the use of that vehicle. Just stop thinking. Very soon you will see, how god is going to change you by force. Your organisation is just a vehicle to carry you, but that is limited to your capacity. I am seeing that. I don't need your help or praise; I know what you are. Bye for now. - Ch Kishore, UK (A long term associate of founder since 2 decades in service)
